DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 7-18 in Paper No. 4/26/04 is acknowledged.

Claims 1-6 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 4/26/04.

Double Patenting

2. Claims 7-18 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over all the claims filed in the following Applications because they are not patentably distinct:

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 7-18 are rejected because they lack patentable utility. Claims 7-18 merely claim the manipulation of data ("logic for" or "code for") but perform no concrete, useful or tangible result. One example of how this rejection may be overcome is by positively claiming the generation of a report or output of data.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 7-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shavit et al. (US Patent 4,799,156) in view of Troyer.

Shavit et al discloses a system/computer program product for identifying goods in a network-based supply chain management framework comprising:

Logic for/Code for generating data at a plurality of stores of a supply chain utilizing a network (see figure 2 which shows buyers in communication with a networked supply chain system that is capable of receiving data from a store of a supply chain, for example the buyer/store enters information in a RFQ to obtain a quote/bid disclosed in column 13, lines 10+), the data relating to an ordering of goods required by the stores (column 6, line 21 discusses the system being used for "goods");

Logic for/Code for tagging the data with product identification (such as when the data is entered for a quote the data includes a description of the needed item, for example as a part number, see column 12 lines 63+);

Logic for/Code for communicating the data and the product identification to at least one of the supply chain participants utilizing the network, where the at least one supply chain participant is capable of using the data and the product or service identification for fulfillment of the order (data from the buyer is transmitted to the distributor to get a RFQ and also to place the order, see figure 2, column 13 lines 10+ and lines 51+; see also figure 2 and column 11, line 15+ regarding sellers (distributors) communicating concurrently with suppliers);

but Shavit et al. is silent regarding the use of numeric goods identifiers in the form of GTINs that are also positioned on the goods and are in the form of a bar code.

Troyer discloses that it is known in the art of supply chains to utilize numeric goods identifiers in the form of GTINs that are also positioned on the goods and are in the form of a bar code to provide integrated demand creation and demand fulfillment processes across all segments and also to provide an unambiguous and unique numbering system for food and related products at every point in the value network (product id bar coding is discussed on pages vii, 5 and 6; the use of GTINs are discussed on pages 1 and 4-11). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the system of Shavit et al. with numeric goods identifiers in the form of GTINs that are also positioned on the goods and are in the form of a bar code as taught by Troyer, in order to provide integrated demand creation and demand fulfillment processes across all segments and also to provide an unambiguous and unique numbering system for food and related products at every point in the value network.
